The artist’s name, titles of artwork, email address (altered to prevent spam—see footnote¹ below for further explanation) and, if available, a link to artist’s website will be included only for those artists who agree to having this done and sign this release. Artist’s phone numbers will be not be displayed. Individuals interested in an artist’s work will be directed to the artist. No arrangements between artists and potential clients will be made by The Gallery.

Under US law, your work is protected by copyright the moment that you create it, even if you never file any application with the copyright office. We encourage you to obtain more information about copyright from www.copyright.gov. The Gallery at Oak Hammock website will indicate on every page that the copyright to the artwork is held by the individual artist. Intentionally, the images displayed will be at a resolution clear enough for normal viewing, but insufficient for commercial use.

¹ Some malevolent people use “robots” to search the Internet for email addresses to which they later send spam. We will prevent this by displaying email addresses that substitute the “@” symbol with the symbol “{at}”, confusing the robots. For example, “jane@aol.com” would be displayed on the website as “jane [at] aol.com”
